

THREE STORIES

MEDIA RELEASE

The next big exhibition at Three Stories also has a practical side... The Lomandra Project - Adrienne Kneebone.

In this body of work Warburton resident - Adrienne Kneebone has used traditional Indigenous weaving from Arnhem Land as the frame work for her iconic Australian forms. Adrienne's 15 years experience in the Northern Territory has deeply influenced her work and this use of media has been an appropriate way for her to express the under current of cultural exchange at work in this country.

The Lomandra Project is an extension of The Pandanus Project run in Wugularr Community NT.

"I would like to work with Indigenous and non- Indigenous makers and weavers to create forms out of the local fibre Lomandra and put Victorian Fibre art back on the map!" Adrienne Kneebone

EXHIBITION OPENING

Please join us at the opening of Adrienne's first Victorian exhibition:

'The Lomandra Project'

Saturday November 5 at 4pm.

Open every weekend from November 5 - December 18.

And learn how it's done...

Surrounded by her incredibly inspiring exhibition, Adrienne Kneebone will guide you through the indigenous techniques of creating sculpture with native fibres.

Kids can create a bush toy whilst adults get sculptural...

Using your hands, weaving, sitting and talking, sharing ideas and knowledge, you will also learn about the collecting and preparing process involved in weaving. A great class for all the family or bring a friend and learn an ancient craft in a creative, inspiring environment.

Dates: November 27th, 2011, 11am - 4pm.

Price: $80 adult / $40 child.

All materials included.
